Fund Commentary & Performance Review

During the month of February 2015, the KSE index shed 2.36% to close at 33,632 points. This downturn was accompanied by a decline in trading turnover as well, as average daily trading volume slid 21% to 242 million shares from 304m shares a month earlier. The market started well initially, crossing the 35,000 points psychological barrier in intraday trading during the month, however, the index started feeling the heat as companies started announcing their financial results. Despite a commendable corporate result season, KSE-100 failed to explore new levels with dwindling volumes. Lower international oil prices coupled with squeezing banking spreads, putting a question mark on the future profitability outlook of banks, proved to be the major sources of concern for investors.

In the month of February 2015, the benchmark KSE-100 index declined by 2.36% whereas your Fund's NAV dropped by 3.36% during the same period thus giving an underperformance of 1.00%. On a YTD basis (July 14 to February 15), the KSE-100 index increased by 13.42% whereas the NAV of your Fund increased by 19.63%, thus, showing an out performance of 6.21%.
